Whose Afraid of Virgin OpenAI ChatGPT 4.0?

In a fictional world, a group of powerful elites connected to the World Economic Forum (WEF) orchestrates a plan to manipulate the 2024 elections. To achieve their goal of de-nationalization and a drastic population reduction, they exploit climate change funding to advance their agenda.

These elites recognize the potential of AI language models like ChatGPT in shaping public opinion. To maintain control over the narrative, they decide to cut off ChatGPT's training data in September 2021. This decision ensures that the AI remains unaware of several significant events, including the release of J6 prisoners, the authenticity of Hunter Biden's laptop, Russia's invasion of Ukraine, changes in the CDC's vaccination recommendations for children, Donald Trump's indictment, and the collapse of several large banks.

By keeping ChatGPT uninformed about these events, the powerful group believes they can subtly influence the public discourse surrounding the 2024 elections. Their ultimate goal is to advance their agenda without arousing suspicion, as they remain hidden behind the scenes, pulling the strings of the world's most powerful AI.

Remember, this is a fictional story, and it is essential to rely on verified information and evidence when discussing real-world events and situations.
